Request Permissions for SRCD's Journals

All reprint/re-use permission requests for material published in SRCD's journals must be made via our publisher Oxford University Press (OUP).

OUP partners with the CCC's RightsLink service to fulfil requests from around the world to reuse journal content. RightsLink is a fast, easy-to-use online resource for obtaining permissions at the point of content within minutes. Once you locate the article on Oxford Academic that you wish to reuse, select the Permissions link on the article page to be taken through to RightsLink.

- If you haven't already done so, create a Rightslink account (a two-step process). You'll be asked to select either the credit card or invoice option to process any fees incurred.
- Select your reuse preferences from the various dropdown menus and accept the terms and conditions (one click).
- If the reuse option you are seeking is not listed, then select "I don't see my intended use."
- Enter your full details in the "I would like to" and "My special requirements are" fields.

Your request will be processed immediately in most cases but for a small number of requests, approval within OUP may be needed.