NEWS | POSTED DECEMBER 17, 2020

Call for Applications: Family Science and Human Development Doctoral Program

Posted on behalf of Montclair State University's Department of Family Science and Human Development

The Family Science and Human Development Doctoral Program at Montclair State University is currently accepting applications for our 2021 student cohort. Their growing doctoral program provides students with a strong foundation in applied research, teaching, community leadership and public policy skills. The Montclair State University faculty and students conduct cutting-edge applied research focusing on promoting healthy family and individual development through the lifespan, using a social justice informed approach. Both full and part-time students are welcome, and they offer flexible schedules with evening, summer, and winter session courses. Graduate assistantships are available! Please see the attached flyer and visit the Family Science and Human Development Doctoral Program website for more information. Application Deadline is February 1, 2020 and application information can be found at: https://www.montclair.edu/graduate/how-to-apply/

Contact Dr. Sara Goldstein (goldsteins@montclair.edu) for additional information.

Download the Program Flyer How to Apply