NEWS | POSTED JULY 5, 2023

Affirmative Action Decision: The Implications for Universities, Post-Decision

SRCD is deeply committed to a diverse, equitable and inclusive higher education system that enables individuals from all backgrounds to access high quality research training. Last week's Supreme Court ruling reduces the tools that Universities can use to support historically marginalized communities. Now more than ever, SRCD stands with colleges and universities who are seeking other ways to ensure the developmental science pipeline remains diverse. Here are a collection of resources higher education leaders can utilize to consider their responses:

Diversity And the Law Town Hall: The Scotus Rulings on Race-Conscious Admissions and DEI Efforts: Join AAAS in a townhall on July 7, 2023 to discuss the Supreme Court's rulings on the Students for Fair Admissions v. President and Fellows of Harvard College and Students for Fair Admissions v. University of North Carolina cases and what that means for universities and their DEI Efforts post-decision.

WEBINAR REGISTRATION - ZOOM

Diversity and the Law: Resources from AAAS to accelerate DEI in higher education that include quick study & key issue resources, tools and reference materials, and customizable models.

DIVERSITY AND THE LAW (AAAS.ORG)

SEA Change Initiative: Provides guidance to colleges and universities as they undergo sustainable institutional transformation on DEI in STEMM fields.

AAAS SEA Change

Opinion articles: A collection of opinion essays from experts on different ways to think about college admissions (note that you can read 5 free articles monthly before hitting a paywall).

READ MORE