CALL FOR PAPERS: Society for Philosophy and Psychology, 2018

SPP2018

Wednesday, July 11 - Saturday, July 14, 2018

University of Michigan, Ann Arbor

Submission site is now open. Click here to view the Call for Papers and submit.

Submission Deadline: February 16, 2018

The Society for Philosophy and Psychology is accepting abstracts of 750 words or less by February 16, 2018, in any area relevant to philosophy, psychology, and cognitive science. Special consideration will be given to submissions that fit with the four themes to be highlighted at the 2018 meeting: Emotions, Virtue, Agency and Addiction, and Well Being.

Submissions will be refereed and selected on the basis of quality and relevance to philosophy, psychology, and cognitive science. They must be written in a format appropriate for anonymous review and employ gender-neutral language. Individual authors may submit only one abstract as first author, though they may be co-authors on other submissions. All submissions will be considered for oral or poster presentation.

See the meeting page for details on the meeting schedule and program as well as past programs.

Inquiries about the meeting should be directed to the Program Committee Chairs, Melissa Koenig (mkoenig@umn.edu) and Michael Bishop (mbishop@fsu.edu). Inquiries about the local arrangements should be directed to the Local Arrangements Chair, Chandra Sripada (sripada@umich.edu).
