NEWS | POSTED FEBRUARY 1, 2018

Submit a Proposal for the 2018 National Council on Family Relations (NCFR) Annual Conference

The National Council on Family Relations (NCFR) invites proposals for its 2018 Annual Conference, planned for Nov. 7–10 in San Diego, California. The conference theme is “Families and Cultural Intersections in a Global Context: Innovations in Research, Practice, and Policies.” Contemporary families live in a world that is complex, increasingly interconnected, and culturally diverse. NCFR’s 2018 conference will focus on innovative approaches, theories, research, policies, and programs that support and strengthen families in all types of Western and non-Western settings. Possible presentation formats include papers, posters, symposia, workshops, poster symposia, and lightning paper sessions. The deadline for submissions is 11:59 p.m. Pacific time, Thursday, March 1, 2018. Find more details about the conference and proposal submission at http://www.ncfr.org/ncfr-2018. Questions? E-mail info@ncfr.org or call 888-781-9331.