NEWS | POSTED NOVEMBER 16, 2018

Graduate Education in Youth Development and Family Science at the University of Florida

The Department of Family, Youth, and Community Sciences is currently accepting applications for admittance to the M.S. or Ph.D. program in youth development and family science at the University of Florida. We are a multidisciplinary applied research program in human development with faculty expertise in youth and adolescent development, families, communities, health disparities, and prevention science. The University of Florida is the premier public university in Florida, ranked 8th in the nation by U.S. News & World Report “Best Public Universities 2019”.

Deadlines: The priority deadline for your application and all supporting documents is December 15, 2018. Applicants who apply by the December 15 deadline will be given priority in funding decisions for graduate assistantships and fellowships. A second wave of applications will be accepted from December 16, 2018 to March 15, 2019.

For more information, please visit the University of Florida Department of Family, Youth, and Community Sciences website or download the flyer.

For inquiries, please contact Gregg Henderschiedt at ghenderschiedt[at]ufl.edu.